Family Support Application

Students in the Family Support and Lifespan concentrations are eligible to apply for the Family Internship during their junior year for internships that will occur during the fall and spring of their senior year.

Applications are due March 1. By mid-March, 10-15 students are selected to participate in the internship. Group and individual meetings with Dr. Jamison are held in April to help students identify their top site choices. Students then interview at one or two sites to explore which one is the best fit. Final placements are made based on the student’s preferences, the site supervisor’s assessment of fit, and the available space at each site. Dr. Jamison provides guidance throughout this process. Many students will be placed before summer, and others can expect to complete this process in the summer and return to campus in the fall knowing where they will be completing their internships.

Students can find the Family Support Application under Undergraduate Forms.
