Preschool teachers will be in greater demand as awareness grows around the importance of early childhood education for a child's short- and long-term intellectual and social development. In addition, the number of students enrolling in kindergarten and elementary schools is expected to increase over the coming decade. Therefore, more teachers will be required to teach these additional classes of students.

Finally, employment growth in human and family services is projected due to a rising demand for health care and social services.

Experiential Learning for Career Readiness!

Students apply knowledge from their academic studies in a variety of supervised environments. Depending on the concentration, students may intern with UNH's Child Study and Development Center or one of several selected community programs.

Hands-on learning prepares students to succeed in a variety of employment areas.
