As people become more aware of sports-related injuries at a young age, demand for athletic trainers is expected to increase. Some states require public secondary schools to employ athletic trainers as part of their sports programs. In addition, growth in an increasingly active middle-aged and elderly population will likely lead to an increased incidence of athletic-related injuries. Finally, military bases hire athletic trainers to help train and rehabilitate injured military personnel.