Growth in this field is attributed to the following: an increased emphasis on preventive care; growing rates of chronic conditions, such as diabetes and obesity; and demand for health care services from the baby-boom population, as they live longer and more active lives.

Industries with the highest level of employment include: general medical and surgical hospitals, physician offices, home health care services, skilled nursing facilities, and outpatient care centers.